

Is much of your everyday experience in your family about dealing with annoyances and upsets, or coping with problems? Are you interested in it being more about fun, freedom and fulfillment?

FamiliesByDesign presents

REINVENTING THE HEART AND SOUL OF FAMILY 16 hours that transform families

Find out why...

- the excitement, possibility and joy that are there when planning a family do not last.
- the thousands of "solutions" for getting that closeness back do not produce what they promise!

Here's what you should know...

You are unknowingly locked into common misunderstandings of the nature and design of families - misunderstandings that actually produce the problems within families. With these misunderstandings locked in place, the more you work on your family, the more you exacerbate the very issues that you are trying to resolve.

What you won't get in our workshop...

You won't get another five secrets, another seven steps, another set of instructions to follow in your already too-busy lives. You will make astounding discoveries - and create your own new and effective pathways for communication and connection.

What you will get...

- a complete understanding of the fundamental nature and design of a family.
- astonishing insights into the causes of upset, frustration and estrangement in families.
- a simple yet uncommon approach to being in a naturally harmonious and fulfilling family.

And here's how...

Together with several other families you participate in fun and engaging questions, exercises and games which illuminate the source of disappointment in families (hint: it's not you or others in your family) and spark an exciting new access to - and appreciation of - being an extraordinary family!

"Before we participated in FamiliesByDesign, we were a family that just got together, did what other families do, and spent time together with no future in mind. After we took the workshop, we began to be together in a new way. We began to play together and invent new futures and games that all of us can enjoy. Family now has a new meaning, and the experience is one of being close and of celebration."

"Family is so basic to who each of us is and to our experiences in life. And yet as often as not, fears, tensions and frustrations displace comfort, ease and contentment in our families. We're interested in turning that around and revitalizing the love and appreciation that is natural to family." Sandy & Lon

"The workshop was a process in accepting the humanity of my family, celebrating our differences and treasuring our moments with each other." Mark Poloway
